BULGARIA'S PATRIOT DEAD.

The Great Minister Dies of His Terrible Wounds this Morning.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

SOFIA, July 18.—Ex-Prime Minister Stambuloff of Bulgaria is dead. He passed away early this morning of the terrible wounds he received when assaulted Monday evening in the streets of Sofia.

This has terminated one of the darkest and most mysterious political murders in European history. The dead statesman, it will be remembered, was attacked by four men when defenceless and on his home from a social club. Two of the assassins shot him time and again with revolvers while the other two villains repeatedly plunged their daggers into him. The victim received more than twenty wounds, and unconscious and bleeding was left for dead in the street. In raising his hands in self-defense, so severely were his wrists cut that both hands had to be amputated, and the doctors gave but little hope from the first. So great had been the loss of blood and so great the shock to the nervous system that M. Stambuloff had no chance to battle for life. He had remained unconscious most of the time since the attack was made on him. Yesterday morning he revived and showed some hopeful signs. He was conscious and the doctors even hoped for his life. Last evening he grew worse. His pulse quickened, a high fever set in and he became unconscious. This was the beginning of the end. All last night he lingered in this feverish, half-conscious condition until he left him this morning.

Mr. Stambuloff yesterday morning gave the authorities the names of the men who attacked him, and among them he included his own coachman who so readily allowed the carriage to be stopped by the assassins.

All Europe is aroused over this murder. Russia is strongly suspected of having instigated the murder, because Stambuloff opposed Russia in all his advances on Bulgaria and was the people's idol. Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria is also strongly suspected of being back of the assassination of his former great minister whom he has deserted and now hates, because he is now in league with Russian power.

Stambuloff was a stern, calculating Bulgarian patriot. He was the center of Russian opposition. He has been the foremost man in Bulgaria for a dozen years and kept his prince on the throne, till the latter decided to accept the Russian alliance, and Bulgarian liberty and independence was lost.

This deed darkens the war cloud in Europe. Russia is more suspected of intrigue and advance on new territory than ever. Every capital in Europe is talking of the crime and its meaning.

A SUDDEN METAMORPHOSIS.

From a Bank Wrecker to a Three Legged
Man from Texas.

WORSE AND WORSE.

That's the Way it Looks for Home Rule and the Liberals.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

LONDON, July 18.—The Daily News, the great Liberal organ this morning hopelessly declared the defeat of its party overwhelming. It says: "The poll in London resulting in a return of eight Liberals and fifty-one Tories have wrecked the Liberals' hopes and exceed the wild expectations of the Tories. The elections turned almost exclusively on the local option question."

Today it is known that John Morley even is defeated in Newcastle, and his defeat is a crushing blow to the already demoralized Liberals. He was opposed by a few hundred Parnellites in Newcastle in consequence of his opposition to grant amnesty to dynamiters, and this, together with the votes thrown to a labor candidate was sufficient to defeat him. The workingmen were bitterly hostile to Morley because of his strong opposition to a compulsory eight-hour day and other socialist propositions.

The early returns from the county pollings today show that the country is with the cities in defeating the Liberals. Everywhere Lord Salisbury's party is winning beyond the calculation of any.

In the District Court.

Alfred St. John and Archie Andrews, son of Holly Andrews, was in court this morning charged with stealing apples from Peter Post. Their cases were continued until Saturday. John Hayes was accused of assaulting Michael Mead and his case was continued until tomorrow.

SAVINGS BANK'S TROUBLES.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

FITZWILLIAM, N. H., July 18.—The Fitzwilliam Savings bank has been enjoined by the court here from receiving deposits and paying to depositors more than 25 per cent. of their accounts. The bank has about $150,000 in deposits. Notices of withdrawals have been accumulating of late and the trustees thought safety required the issuing of a temporary injunction. It is not believed the depositors will suffer any hardships in the matter.

MORE FIGHTING IN FORMOSA.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.]

The Black Flags were almost overwhelmed numbers and compelled the Japanese to retreat. Shells from the navy guns of the war ships of the Japanese alone saved the latter from destruction. Renewed fighting is imminent all through the island.

The man who laughs when he is not happy either has something to sell or something to conceal.—Exchange.

From a Bank Wrecker to a Three Legged Man from Texas.

The secret knock that admits the clerks after business hours was made on the door of a local banking establishment the other day and the cashier pushed the button instantly. The door flew open and in rushed a small, lean and wild looking individual, a member evidently of the crank species. He shouted with the most terrifying manner he could assume, "I am the Texas bank breaker." An alert clerk had two pistols leveled on him before he had finished his short speech. "Take care or you'll get hurt," the clerk said warningly, and the little wild man stood shivering on the spot. He almost dropped his little bag from quaking. "Say mister, he said, don't use those things," and the little relation in the suspense that came from the utterance of these words had hardly become felt until the little fellow, shouting "I am the three-legged man from Texas," disappeared out the door with a bounding rapidity. He wandered up and down the street for hours afterwards but did not come back to face the shooting irons.

PRESIDENT CARTER'S REPORT.

The annual report of the president of Williams college for 1894-95 is on our desk. It gives an outline of the work done for the fourteenth year of Dr. Carter's administration, states the necessities of the college, and outlines the plans and work of the coming year.

No one consideration receives so much anxious attention from the president as the college's finances. That Williams is not overburdened with money, or hasn't sufficient resources to carry on the constantly widening field of college work, is apparent from these prefatory remarks found in the report: "The increased necessity for economy in the administration of the college will be apparent. If at the same time the possibility that unexpected help may arise is suggested, it is certainly plain that a large addition to our resources is required for the most efficient maintenance of even our present curriculum, and it is not probable that our funds will be much enlarged except by the hearty co-operation of all interested."

In dealing with the proposed work of the different departments for the next year, it is also noticed that in several instances, "in the interest of economy," the work has been confined to narrower limits than if the treasury were in a fatter condition.

Speaking of the largely increased work in modern languages Dr. Carter says: "The first catalogue after I became president, that '81-'82, gives the names of one professor and one instructor in this department. The whole number of hours of instruction per week during that year in the modern languages was fourteen. The catalogue the past year has contained the names of two professors, one assistant professor and one instructor with the whole number of hours of instruction per week forty-three. The hours have been mostly employed in teaching French and German, but there has been an elective both in Italian and Spanish."

Prof. Goodrich who was last year appointed to give instruction in German and history, and who was formerly engaged in teaching in North Adams, is highly spoken of as having achieved "marked success" in his work. Mr. Harrington of the class of '93, who has been assistant in biology during the year and who took up Mr. Spaulding's work the last few weeks of the closing term in Drury, is mentioned as having been appointed assistant in the biological laboratory of Columbia college.

President Carter evidently has a soft place in his heart for the much persecuted Greek language, and believes the classical student is yet a little the highest species studious. He says in speaking of the new scientific course that does not require Greek: "The possibility of securing a degree by the new course has not brought students of a grade, on the whole, equal with the average of those who enter the old classical course."

In dealing with donations and legacies, the report shows that the amounts paid into the treasury for the year aggregated $33,425. The largest two items were the balance of the famous Fayweather legacy, $14,250; and the Souberbeille estate for Horace F. Clark scholarship, $20,000.

President Carter dwells at length on the fact that for the first time in the college history houses belonging to the college in which the professors live were taxed. This is deemed wrong as "under the Massachusetts law, personal property and real estate necessary to the ongoing of the college are not taxed." President Carter holds that college property of this kind elsewhere in the state is not so taxed. The seeming antagonism to the college on the part of the town is thus spoken of:

The immense honor that Williams college has brought to this community, which must be aware that elegant houses have been built here and the taxable property of the town largely augmented and an immense increase added to the value of the real estate, because the college is here, the growing antagonism to the college appears to be due to the situation of the college, covering both sides of Union street, and the rapid growth in building, combining to present a monotonous, visible and imposing to our resources—a monument however whose largeness is hardly borne out by the condition of the treasury. It has been easy to appreciate differences and to excite hostility in rapidly changing society, but it is somewhat intent on securing reductions in its own taxation, and not at all another important perhaps with the advantages of a college to the community. I cannot help hoping that as time passes a kindred feeling and a fuller appreciation of the actual value of the presence in the community of such a body of men as compose our faculty may arise.

In regard to athletics, it seems to us President Carter takes a wholesome and commendable position. He is not blind to the serious dangers to the first purpose of college life coming from an exaggerated estimate of the worth of athletics. He says in part:

The whole subject of athletics has become to many of the mature friends of the college a topic of anxiety. The universities spend very large sums and get a swift pace and college the size of Williams cannot keep up with it, except under a great strain and it is feared with detriment to the serious purposes of college life. The questions involved in the relation of intercollegiate athletics to the work of the college are now serious and pressing. Every true friend of the smaller college will be bound to insist the principle that decisions in the stadium and the field can be allowed for the sake of athletic enjoyment. The community seems to be laying undue emphasis on physical contests and the consequent newspaper renown. There will surely be a reaction from these conditions and the quiet and more academical spirit must be restored, or serious loss will arise.

While Williams college may be in need of money, it is yet one of the best of New England's conservative, thorough, Christian colleges, advancing along the tried and approved lines of education.

Never did David B. Hill and his demagogism get a more thorough exposing than at the hands of Mr. Roosevelt in the rooms of the Good Government club in New York city the other evening. The president of the police commission said in speaking of Hill's desire not to have the Sunday closing laws enforced in New York: "I do not usually ascribe motives, and I would ordinarily hesitate, in speaking of a United States Senator, to say that his Governor and his legislature (for he controlled them both absolutely) deliberately enacting a law which they deliberately intended to be dishonored by a senator, for Senator Hill's letter is in effect a frank avowal that these were the motives which actuated the Tammany Legislature that passed the present law. Senator Hill's assault upon honest enforcement is tantamount to the admission, in the first place, that it never had been honest to be enforced; and, in the next place, that it is not to be enforced, it is not honestly enforced. He kept silent while the law which his people had put in the statute books was contemptuously violated in the interest of corruption. A more humiliating position was never taken by a public man than this position which has been taken by Senator Hill." And Hill is the man who, it is said, can dive deeper, come up master and appear cleaner than any Democrat alive. He is not so clean appearing, however, this time.

Now, here is a scheme looking to matrimony that lacks neither enterprise nor merit. An exchange says:

It is not uncommon for girls employed in factories producing men's clothing to put slips of paper containing their name and address inside articles, and it is said that some romantic marriages have resulted from the practice. A week or two ago a young man living near Portland, Me., found in a pair of socks a note, which said the girl was greatly employed in knitting stockings in Keene, N. H., who would like to correspond with the finder of the note, if an unmarried man, with a view to matrimony. The young man thought the matter over, and finally sent a sweet little note to the name and address given. A few days since he received a curt letter, informing him that the girl who wrote the note was now married and the mother of two children.

That Williamstown people have a rare opportunity of hearing good preaching throughout the year may be seen from this partial list of the college chapel ministers for last year: Rev. Dr. Cuthbert Hall, Brooklyn; Rev. Dr. Riggs, Auburn Theological seminary; Rev. Drs. Moore, Harris and Ryder, Andover Theological seminary; Rev. Dr. Hoyt, Auburn seminary; Rev. Dr. Taison, Rochester seminary; Rev. Dr. Jacobs, Hartford seminary; Rev. Dr. McKenzie and Rev. D. N. Beach, Cambridge; Rev. Dr. Merriman, Worcester; Rev. Dr. Terrett, Hamilton college; Rev. Drs. Gordon and W. E. Barton, Boston; Rev. Dr. Thomas, Brookton; Rev. Dr. Lyman, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rev. John H. Lockwood, Westfield; and Rev. Dr. Richards, Plainfield, N. J.

The civilized world stands horrified and amazed at what possibly may befalling back of the attempted assassination of M. Stamboloff ex-Premier of Bulgaria. Suspicion rests on his sovereign, Prince Ferdinand, who has been personally hostile to him, and also on the Russian government, which, it is believed, is willing to take even the Bulgarian tactics of assasination to extend its influence in the Balkan peninsula. And while Bulgaria's great minister lies dying, only darkest evidences of political crime surround the case.

When Mr. Harvey of Coin's Financial School has gotten done with Roswell G. Horr in that little club room debate in Chicago, the agreed $15,000, words all spoken, we venture to say he will appear something like the Indian of the early days of trans-pacific trains, who would insist on sportively throwing hisasso over the smoke stack of the engine, and so generally wound up his career in small pieces, being invariably pulled under the wheels. Harvey and his arguments will be in small pieces too.

A little group of silverites keep open a place of headquarters in New York city. Among those who relieve each other on picked duty are: Senator J. Don Cameron of Pennsylvania, Senator John P. Jones of Nevada, Congressman Francis G. Newlands of Nevada, Senator Stewart of Nevada, Senator Dubois of Idaho, Senator Shoup of Idaho, Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota, Byron E. Shear and H. B. Gillespie of Denver, and Major D. B. Harris of Tennessee.

The C. E. convention has gone from Boston. The street car conductor, the policeman, the baker and the reporter sigh in relief. Great as were the expectations of this convention the realization has surpassed the most sanguine anticipations both of the delegates themselves and of the people whose city was favored with their presence, and both are immeasurably better for the associations of the eventful week.

According to the United States census's statistics of churches, just issued, the leading denominations of this country in the order of communicants is as follows: Catholic, 6,275,861; Methodist, 4,582,284; Baptist, 3,712,468; Presbyterian, 1,205,322; Lutheran, 1,231,072; Episcopal, 640,209; Reformed, 309,483; United Brethren, 225, 231; Latter Day Saints, 166,125; Jewish, 133,493.

A scheme is now on foot to move Union college from Schenectady to Albany. Albany must make some inducement and Union probably favors it, as do many of the alumni. Albany now has the law school, the medical college and the college of pharmacy, all parts of the university, and should have the college proper.

An exchange feels that Mr. Cleveland's constant worry about free silver and the destroying of the parity of the metals, could better be turned to the baneful results of the destruction of the parity of the sexes by the free coinage of girls. Very right.

The excursion of the Congregational Sunday school to Saratoga yesterday was very successful and pleasant. The train left North Adams at 7:30 in the morning and reached Saratoga lake at 9:25. Many of the excursionists stopped at the lake to see the regatta and were treated to four beautiful races. Congress park and other points of interest were visited and the day was thoroughly enjoyed. There was not an accident. The train left Saratoga at 5:30 and reached North Adams at 7:30. The weather was not so hot in Saratoga as it was here and the outing was one of the pleasantest the school ever had.

The train consisted of seven coaches and carried between 400 and 500 people. J. H. Cody returned from New York last night.

Some Very Fine Statuary.

Rev. Fr. Trigano, pastor of Notre Dame parish, has purchased some very fine statuary, which has been placed in his church. On either side of the Blessed Virgin's altar, at the right side of the church, are two handsome pieces of work. One is a statue of Michael, the archangel, and the other is of St. Joseph. Just in front stand statues of Jesus, emblematic of the sacred heart and St. Jean Baptiste's statue of St. John. On the left side of the altar of St. Anne, are statues of Alawicus and St. Anthony of Padre. At the main altar are representations of angels, which are very pretty. There are also some very fine vases and the combined effect is beautiful.

Samon Acquited.

AMESBURY STRIKE OFF.

Strikers Must Take Chances of Obtaining Old Loans.

Had No Funds Left to Continue the Battle.

Agent Quinn Claims That Hamilton Mills Employes Got Good Wages.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 18.—The strike among the 375 weavers at the Hamilton mills has been virtually declared off. A meeting was held in Elizur hall, yesterday, and by a vote of 42 to 46 the weavers decided to return to work if Agent Quinn would give them their old loans.

A committee of two was appointed to wait upon Agent Quinn to see if he would agree to this proposition.

He referred the committee to Overseer Yates, but the latter refused to consider the question, stating that Mr. Quinn must decide the issue raised. Mr. Quinn replied that a third of the 1710 loans were now running, operated by men who have returned since the strike was declared, and that under no consideration would he discharge them. The strikers could return, but would have to run their chances of obtaining loans which they had previously left.

It is probable that the strikers will all return by next Monday morning. Another meeting was held to receive the report of this special committee. The situation was then discussed by the leading strikers, but the prevailing opinion was that they had better return to work and obtain what they could, as their strike was over.

Funds Have Already Given Out.

By another vote the help decided to do so, the same number holding out against the majority.

Agent Quinn said he had about 50 men in the weaving department already, and that there are 408 loans running. The men have been now four weeks and are on their fifth. They have not accomplished anything, and their families have had to suffer for it. The weavers have been misinformed from the start, but I convinced President Whitehead that the Hamilton mills were paying their help as much wages as any other mill in Massachusetts.

"I told Mr. Whitehead go through the mill and investigate matters himself, and not take my word for it. We manufacture here mostly 64 prints and some sheeting, running five factories the year round. Mr. Whitehead informed me that he was satisfied that we were doing as well by the men, and better, than most companies. When we are rushed, we employ 700 in all departments, and we give them steady employment."

"Now, to show you how our mill compares with other places, here is a table which will back up my statement:

Albany.....	19½	cents for 48 yards Fall Paper.....
Lawrence.....	19½	" 50½
Suncook.....	19	" 50½

"This table is absolutely correct and tells the whole story."

EARLY IN THE FIELD.

Massachusetts Populists Frame Platform and Ticket For Fall Election.

BOSTON, July 18.—The People's party of Massachusetts held its first state delegation convention yesterday in Atrium hall. Two hundred and sixty enthusiastic Populists were in attendance, and the following state ticket was nominated:

For governor, E. G. Brown, Brookton; lieutenant governor, Thomas C. Buildington, Springfield; treasurer and receiver general, M. W. Moran; secretary of state, Charles D. Nash, Whitman; auditor, Andrew H. Paton, Danvers; attorney general, B. O. Wain, Springfield.

Much of the afternoon session was devoted to framing resolutions. The committee finally reported a platform, the introduction of which attacks both old parties. The platform reaffirms the Omaha platform of the People's party; asks for an unassivable silver dollar, issued by the government alone; demands the free coinage of silver, 16 to 1, without waiting for any other nation; demands a published record of legislative debates; urges the adoption of the initiative referendum; opposes the biennial election law; promises support to all reasonable demands of labor, and favors public ownership of monopolies.

A Peculiar Case.

PROVIDENCE, July 18.—Henry Baxter of this city yesterday applied to Medical Examiner Palmer for permission to exhume the body of Mrs. Alexander Baxter, his brother's wife. Mr. Baxter regards the death of Mrs. Baxter as somewhat suspicious. Since Mrs. Baxter's death the insurance on her life has been paid over. She was 70 years of age, and Alexander Baxter, who is only 26 years old, was her third husband. She possessed money and property valued at least at $20,000, and in her will left her husband, his brother Harry and a 15-year-old adopted daughter each one-third. The will provided that in the event of the girl's death, her share was to revert to her adopted father. On June 13 Mrs. Baxter learned of the loss of a family member and died the next day. The adopted daughter is now very sick. An investigation will at once be held.

Will Be Married, After All.

PEABODY, Mass., July 18.—William Gove, a Plymouth man, who mysteriously disappeared June 29, two nights before his contemplated marriage to Miss Barbara Duke of Lynn, had a conference with Miss Duke here yesterday afternoon. Gove claims that after drawing his wages on the last Saturday in June he remembered nothing until he found himself in Olin's on July 9. He saw what a sensation his sudden departure had caused by reading a Boston paper, and determined to come to Massachusetts again. He went to Lynn last Thursday. He then went to Salem, and finally came here where a conference between him and Miss Duke was arranged. Miss Duke decided not to meet William's unexpected visit to Ohio before the wedding.

ROCKEFELLER, July 18.—The roads and streets of Concord and Lexington were thronged with Christian Endeavor pilgrims yesterday, but there were not many as Concord people had expected. Lexington, on the contrary, was astonished at the size of the crowd. The local society had expected about 3000, but when train load after train load was emptied at the marsh the long line began to the march to the center of the town, the local guides and more than they could attend to. Concord people, on the other hand, expected from 20,000 to 25,000 people. As it was, there were about 2000 pilgrims scattered over the town during the afternoon.
